1.1 EXTRACT A

[Stephen Kumalo arrives in Sophiatown, Johannesburg.]

The driver smoked carelessly, and it was impossible not to admire such courage. Street after street, light after light, as though they would never end, at times at such speed that the bus swayed from side to side, and the engine roared in the ears.

They alighted at a small street, and there were still thousands of people about. They walked a great distance, through streets crowded with people. His new friend helped to carry his bag, but he felt confidence in him. At last they stopped before a lighted house, and knocked. 5

The door opened and a young tall man in clerical dress opened to them.

– Mr. Msimangu, I bring a friend to you, the Reverend Kumalo from Ndotsheni. 10

– Come in, come in, my friends. Mr. Kumalo, I am glad to greet you. Is this your first visit to Johannesburg?

Kumalo could not boast any more. He had been safely guided and warmly welcomed. He spoke humbly. I am much confused, he said. I owe much to our friend. 15

– You fell into good hands. This is Mr. Mafolo, one of our big business men, and a good son of the Church.

– But not before he had been robbed, said the business man.

So the story had to be told, and there was much sympathy and much advice. 20

1.2 EXTRACT B

[Stephen Kumalo goes up the mountain.]

He thought of all those that were suffering, of Gertrude the weak and foolish one, of the people of Shanty Town and Alexandra, of his wife now at this moment. But above all of his son, Absalom. Would he be awake, would he be able to sleep, this night before the morning? He cried out, My son, my son, my son.	5
With his crying he was now fully awake, and he looked at his watch and saw that it was one o'clock. The sun would rise soon after five, and it was then it was done, they said. If the boy was asleep, then let him sleep, it was better. But if he was awake, then O Christ of the abundant mercy, be with him. Over this he prayed long and earnestly.	10
Would his wife be awake, and thinking of it? She would have come with him, were it not for the girl. And the girl, why he had forgotten her. But she was no doubt asleep; she was loving enough, but this husband had given her so little, no more than her others had done.
And there was Jarvis, bereaved of his wife and son, and his daughter-in-law bereaved of her husband, and her children bereaved of their father, especially the small boy, the bright laughing boy.	15

2.1 EXTRACT C

[Mr Utterson knocks on Dr Jekyll's door.]

'I will see, Mr Utterson,' said Poole, admitting the visitor, as he spoke, into a large, low-roofed, comfortable hall, paved with flags, warmed (after the fashion of a country house) by a bright, open fire, and furnished with costly cabinets of oak. 'Will you wait here by the fire, sir? or shall I give you a light in the dining-room?'

5

'Here, thank you,' said the lawyer, and he drew near and leaned on the tall fender. This hall, in which he was now left alone, was a pet fancy of his friend the doctor's; and Utterson himself was wont to speak of it as the pleasantest room in London. But to-night there was a shudder in his blood; the face of Hyde sat heavy on his memory; he felt (what was rare with him) a nausea and distaste of life; and in the gloom of his spirits, he seemed to read a menace in the flickering of the firelight on the polished cabinets and the uneasy starting of the shadow on the roof. He was ashamed of his relief, when Poole presently returned to announce that Dr Jekyll was gone out.

10

'I saw Mr Hyde go in by the old dissecting-room door, Poole,' he said. 'Is that right, when Dr Jekyll is from home?'

15

'Quite right, Mr Utterson, sir,' replied the servant. 'Mr Hyde has a key.'

SERVANT:	Ay, madam, but returns again tonight.
LADY M:	Say to the King, I would attend his leisure For a few words.
SERVANT:	Madam, I will.	Exit. 5
LADY M:	Nought's had, all's spent, Where our desire is got without content. 'Tis safer to be that which we destroy Than by destruction dwell in doubtful joy.
	Enter Macbeth.	10
	How now, my lord! Why do you keep alone, Of sorriest fancies your companions making, Using those thoughts which should indeed have died With them they think on? Things without all remedy Should be without regard; what's done is done.	15
MACBETH:	We have scorched the snake, not killed it. She'll close and be herself, whilst our poor malice Remains in danger of her former tooth. But let the frame of things disjoint, both the worlds suffer, Ere we will eat our meal in fear, and sleep	20
	In the affliction of these terrible dreams That shake us nightly. Better be with the dead, Whom we, to gain our peace, have sent to peace, Than on the torture of the mind to lie In restless ecstasy. Duncan is in his grave; After life's fitful fever he sleeps well.	25

LADY M:	Treason has done his worst; nor steel, nor poison, Malice domestic, foreign levy, nothing, Can touch him further. Come on, Gentle, my lord, sleek o'er your rugged looks; Be bright and jovial among your guests tonight.	30

GENTLEWOMAN:	Neither to you nor anyone, having no witness to confirm my speech.

DOCTOR:	How came she by that light?
GENTLEWOMAN:	Why, it stood by her; she has light by her continually, 'tis her command.	10
DOCTOR:	You see, her eyes are open.
GENTLEWOMAN:	Ay, but their sense is shut.
DOCTOR:	What is it she does now? Look, how she rubs her hands.
GENTLEWOMAN:	It is an accustomed action with her, to seem thus washing her hands. I have known her continue in this a quarter of an hour.	15
LADY M:	Yet here's a spot.
DOCTOR:	Hark! She speaks. I will set down what comes from her, to satisfy my remembrance the more strongly.
LADY M:	Out, damned spot! Out, I say! One. Two. Why, then 'tis time to do't. Hell is murky. Fie, my lord, fie! A soldier and afeard? What need we fear who knows it, when none can call our power to account? Yet who would have thought the old man to have had so much blood in him?	20

ISABEL:	What does Mr M say?
THAMI:	It's got nothing to do with him.
ISABEL:	But you're his favourite, aren't you? [Non-committal shrug from Thami] I bet you are. And I also bet you anything you like that he's got a career planned out for you.	5

THAMI:	I don't listen to what he says and I don't do what he says.
ISABEL:	I said I'm sorry. I didn't mean to interfere.	10

ISABEL:	[Placating] Ja, I know what you mean. I've had them in my life as well. They always know what is best for you, don't they? So anyway, listen ... I'm going to write up the debate for our school newspaper. I'll send you a copy if you like.	15

Thami ... Thami Mbikwana ... [Pause] Living or dead? How many souls do I have to present this morning? There are a lot of well-aimed stray bullets flying around on the streets out there. Is that why this silence is so ... heavy? But what can I teach you? [Picks up his little black dictionary on the table] My lessons were meant to help you in this world. I wanted you to know how to read and write and talk in this world of living, stupid, cruel men. [Helpless gesture] Now? Oh my children! I have no lessons that will be of any use to you now. Mr M and all his wonderful words are ... useless, useless, useless! [The sound of breaking glass. Stones land in the classroom. Mr M picks up one] No! One of you is still alive. 5.1 'TRANSFORMING MOMENTS'EXTRACT I

[The narrator has returned from the village with Father Fikeni.]

It was Monday afternoon and I was lying on my stomach at my favourite corner under the black wattle trees when I wrote my first poem. I've never had a child, but the great feeling that swept over me was too overwhelming for words, maybe that's how people feel when they have their first baby, I don't know. I sat up and read it out loud. I liked the sound of my own voice – I liked to hear the poem. I put the paper down and ran my fingers on my face to feel my features – the smile that wouldn't leave my face, my nose, my cheekbones, my eyes, my ears – everything just felt fine. My voice sounded like it was a special voice made especially to recite poems – with dignity. Resonant – was that it? That's the day I fell in love with myself – everything about me was just perfect. I collected my books and the towel I was lying on, stood up and stretching my limbs – I felt tall and fit. I felt like jumping and laughing until I could not laugh any more. I wanted tomorrow to come so I could go buy myself a new notebook to write my poems in. A woman praise poet – I'd never heard of one, but what did it matter? – I could be the first one.	5 10 15

[Mrs Harger returns home.]

Before Paul could find an answer, there was a disturbance out on the street. A big, motherly woman was getting out of a taxicab and wailing at the top of her lungs. 'Lem! Lem, baby.'

She barged into the foyer, a suitcase bumping against her leg and tearing her stockings to shreds. She dropped the suitcase, and ran to Harger, throwing her arms around him. 5

'I got your message, darling,' she said, 'and I did just what All-Night Sam told me to do. I swallowed my self-respect, and here I am!'

'Rose, Rose, Rose – my little Rose,' said Harger. 'Don't ever leave me again.' They grappled with each other affectionately, and staggered into their apartment. 10

'Just look at this apartment!' said Mrs Harger. 'Men are just lost without women!' As she closed the door, Paul could see that she was awfully pleased with the mess.

'You sure you didn't hear any shots?' said the policeman to Paul.	15
The ball of money in Paul's pocket seemed to swell to the size of a watermelon. 'Yessir,' he croaked.

Mid-term break – Seamus Heaney

- 1 I sat all morning in the college sick bay
- 2 Counting bells knelling classes to a close.
- 3 At two o'clock our neighbours drove me home.

- 4 In the porch I met my father crying –
- 5 He had always taken funerals in his stride –
- 6 And Big Jim Evans saying it was a hard blow.

- 7 The baby cooed and laughed and rocked the pram
- 8 When I came in, and I was embarrassed
- 9 By old men standing up to shake my hand

- 10 And tell me they were 'sorry for my trouble'.
- 11 Whispers informed strangers I was the eldest,
- 12 Away at school, as my mother held my hand

- 13 In hers and coughed out angry tearless sighs.
- 14 At ten o'clock the ambulance arrived
- 15 With the corpse, stanced and bandaged by the nurses.

- 16 Next morning I went up into the room. Snowdrops
- 17 And candles soothed the bedside; I saw him
- 18 For the first time in six weeks. Paler now,

- 19 Wearing a poppy bruise on his left temple,
- 20 He lay in the four foot box as in his cot.
- 21 No gaudy scars, the bumper knocked him clear.

- 22 A four foot box, a foot for every year.

Alexandra – Mongane Wally Serote

1 Were it possible to say,
2 Mother, I have seen more beautiful mothers,
3 A most loving mother,
4 And tell her there I will go,
5 Alexandra, I would have long gone from you.

6 But we have only one mother, none can replace,
7 Just as we have no choice to be born,
8 We can't choose mothers;
9 We fall out of them like we fall out of life to death.

10 And Alexandra,
11 My beginning was knotted to you,
12 Just like you knot my destiny.
13 You throb in my inside silences
14 You are silent in my heart-beat that's loud to me.
15 Alexandra often I've cried.
16 When I was thirsty my tongue tasted dust,
17 Dust burdening your nipples.
18 I cry Alexandra when I am thirsty.
19 Your breasts ooze the dirty waters of your dongas,
20 Waters diluted with the blood of my brothers, your children,
21 Who once chose dongas for death-beds.
22 Do you love me Alexandra, or what are you doing to me?

23 You frighten me, Mama,
24 You wear expressions like you would be nasty to me,
25 You frighten me, Mama,
26 When I lie on your breast to rest, something tells me
27 You are bloody cruel.
28 Alexandra, hell
29 What have you done to me?
30 I have seen people but I feel like I'm not one,
31 Alexandra what are you doing to me?

32 I feel I have sunk to such meekness!
33 I lie flat while others walk on me to far places.
34 I have gone from you, many times,
35 I come back.
36 Alexandra, I love you;
37 I know
38 When all these worlds became funny to me
39 I silently waded back to you
40 And amid the rubble I lay,
41 Simple and black.
